

base, or business connections to partner, fund or come home and set up Irish businesses or set up branches here.

Incentives, incentives, incentives.

Focus, focus, focus on our assets.

REPLY 1 REPLY ^ 0

FromNY · 20 HRS AGO

Reply to Oeevis

Thank you! The Irish at home have so much to offer. I agree, if we can get the diaspora Inc. US companies to partner with indigenous Irish companies, we will have a winning combination. I remember when I was younger working in the warehouse at APD Limerick, the staff had a great work ethic. And even though many didn't have third level educations, they were just as smart and skilled at their jobs, some advancing to management positions on their smarts alone. Let's further tap into and maximize this great energy and skill and opportunity for both Ireland's economy and its people/employees, and not waste it. Partnerships (FDI as opposed to just strategic) with indigenous Irish companies can do this...

REPLY ^ 0

Add your reply

Tex · 23 HRS AGO

The rise in corporate income tax from 12.5% to 21% will cause the exodus of multinationals. Slowly as contracts expire an personnel dismissed they will disappear from the landscape. The educated workforce that was an attraction for relocation of business has emigrated to countries that have affordable housing, better medical facilities, better banking regulations and better governments.

REPLY 1 REPLY ^ 1

IT | MANUFACTURING

SUGGESTED FOR YOU

Bosch blasts EU over electric car 'fixation'

READ NOW